OUR CIRCULATION.

WE mean to keep the following paragraph standing for the benefit of all whom it may concern: ADVERTISING. - We would commend the following facts to the attention of the advertising community. The "Wilmington Journal" circulates upwards of 12 HUNDRED COPIES weekly. Its circulation in the town of Wilmington is as large as that of any other paper published in the place. We would further state that its circulation in the counties which trade to this place is THREE TIMES as large as that of any other paper published in North Carolina, and that its list is daily increasing. We say, therefore, without the fear of contradiction, that it is the best vehicle for advertising which the peomation of those who are most deeply interested-business men of all professions and all political creeds-

Wilmington, August 1st, 1845. MAY SONG.

The following song of Earl Conrad of Kirch berg, is translated very closely, and in the same measure as the original: May, sweet May, again is come ; May, that frees the land from gloom; Children, children, up and see All her stores of jollity!

O'er the laughing hedgerows' side She hath spread her treasures wide; She is in the greenwood shade. Where the nightingale hath made Every branch and every tree Ring with her sweet melody : Hill and dale are May's own treasures, Youth, rejoice in sportive measures; Sing ye! join the chorus gay!

Hail this merry, merry May!

Up, then, children, we will go Where the blooming roses grow, In a joyful company We the bursting flowers will see; Up! your festal dress prepare! Where gay hearts are meeting, there May hath pleasures most inviting, Heart, and sight, and ear delighting: Listen to the bird's sweet song, Hark! how soft it floats along! Courtly dames our pleasures share, Therefore, dancing will we go: Youths rejoice, the flow'rets blow; Sing ye! join the chorus gay!

Our manly youths, -where are they now ? Bid them up, and with us go To the sporters on the plain; Bid adieu to care and pain, Now, thou pale and wounded lover! Thou thy peace shall soon recover: Many a laughing lip and eye Speaks the light heart's gaiety. Lovely flowers around we find, In the smiling verdure twined, Richly steep'd in May-dews glowing: Youths! rejoice, the flowers are blowing: Sing ye! join the chorus gay! Hail this merry, merry May!

Hail this merry, merry May !

Oh, if to my love restored, Her, o'er all her sex adored, What supreme delight were mine! How would Care her sway resign! Merrily in the bloom of May, I would weave a garland gay; Better than the best is she, Purer than all purity! For her spotless self alone, I will sing this changeless one : Thankful or un hankful, she Shall my song, my idol be.

Youths, then, join the chorus gay ! Hail this merry, merry May !

CRUZ AND MEXICO.

Iournal.

City of Jalapa.—This city stands on very elevated ground, yet for many miles the ascent is quite gradual. From the city of Vera Cruz is visible as is also the sea, ninety miles distant. The city itsel is upon a high hillhighest in the centre so that the streets incline considerably; so much so that no wheeled vehicle can pass along any of them except the main street or road, which has a considerable rise and descent. The city is surrounded by a wall, and has a strongly built church near the western gate which could be converted into a citadel. The streets are paved. The houses. as in other Mexican towns, are of stone, with flat roofs and iron barred windows. Opposite the city, on the left of the road is a hill, from which the road might be annoved, and shells thrown into the town; the road is a handsome and substantial structure of chequered pavement, and must have been very costly. The city is to be immediately occupied by our troops, and is to be the headquarters of Gen. Scott till he takes up his march for the Halls of the Montezumas. Perote and its Castle .- At the base of a high nount, bearing the same name, some distance from the road on the left is a cluster of houses, with a church called Perote. Opposite, on the right of the road, and commanding it in every direction, stands the castle. It is upon a flat sandy plain, strongly built of stone encircled by a deep dry fosse or ditch. The main entrance is by going over a cheveaux de ing house, 'you expect to visit the country frize by a stile descending some twenty-five or thirty stone steps to the bottom of the fosse, and thence to the gates, which are on a level with the bottom. The population of Perote is estimated at eight thousand souls; it is a fine little city, the houses are generally of one story, built of stone and covered with terraces: the principal street is remarkably fine, the others are wide and paved. On a market day it is astonishing to see the great variety of the best fruits of Europe and of the tropics, piled round the square. #### PREVENTING A WEDDING, OR THE FATED PANTALOONS.

An old gentleman of London, merchant in Bush Lane, had an only daughter endowed with great mental and physical charms, and possessing every faculty calculated to please and delight. She had besides a fine dowry. She was attached and engaged to a young man in her own rank, as well situated as herself with the world and worthy in all respects of her love and the happiness he promised himself. The preliminary arrangement's were made, and after having been postponed two or three times, the marriage was positively fixed for Thursday 15th April, 18-. The preceding Monday the young gentle-man who ought to have received £10,000 sterling as a dowry on the day of his marriage, and £30,000 after the death of his father-inlaw who was far advanced in life, had with his beautiful betrothed one of those little scenes of jealousy which happen to all lovers, even those the most enamored of each other.

It was a little party. The young lady thought her lover too attentive to one of her friends who had the finest eyes in the world and resplendent tresses of auburn hair, beautiful enough to make a man distracted. To the reproaches which were made to him the young gentleman replied with some little asperity, and ventured some quick remarks on a certain cousin whose superb waistcoat had attracted general admiration & which they said had been embroidered by the pretty hands of the beautiful hairess. He added even, the young and the impudent, that it would be quite too married, and that she "wore the breaches' rather too soon! After supper, the two lovers grew cooler and cooler towards each other, in spite of iced Champagne and Roman Punch, so much so that they parted in a pique The next morning, our young man felt great regret at his conduct on the previous evening, which then appeared to him to have been wicked and unjust. He repented of it, and wishing to make the amend honorable, he envelloped with great care a magnificent dress of satin which he had some days before ordered for his betrothed and sent it to her with

THE STEAMER WASHINGTON The N. Y. True Sun thus describes the new

first trial trip of which took place with com-plete satisfaction on Monday morning. She sailed on her first European voyage on the 1st instant, and it is confidently predicted by many that she will accomplish it in ten days: " The Washington is the first of the American line of steamers built pursuant to provisions made by Congress, to form a regular channel of communication between this city, Cowes, Southampton, and Bremen. She is a splendid vessel of 1800 tons burthen; length of keel, 220 feet; on deck, 240 feet; over all, 256 feet; breadth of beam, 39 feet; depth of hold, 31 feet; engines, 1000 horse power each; 72-inch cylinders, with 10 feet stroke. Shafts, cranks, and frame, all of wrought iron. Shaft, 20 inches in diameter; weight of cranks, 7000 lbs. each; the boilers, 15 feet front, 12 feet shell, and 36 feet long. Her fire room is so completely covered with sheet iron as to prevent almost the possibility of accidents from hat quarter. Her wheels are 38 feet diameter, 71 feet face. So much for size and equipments, and now as to her accommodations for passengers. Her main saloon is 85 feet long, by 20 feet wide, elegantly decorated and gilded, and lighted at night by lamps of a costly kind and novel construction. Her stern windows are composed of splendidly stained glass, each pane of which contains either the arms of one or other of those countries which she is intended to visit, or the likeness of some American or foreign patriot. Every part of her intended to be occupied by passengers, is most elegantly furnished, and supplied with everything that could be thought of to minister to their comfort or convenience. She has spacious berths for 143 first class passengers, and 44 for second class passengers. The en-tire outlay upon her, for all and everything, has been but $275,000."

MEXICAN LADIES.

HEGHES, Captain of the Topographical Engineers, will interest some of our readers:-"The women are rather under what we tegard as the medium size, slight in figure, well formed and graceful; and while few are beauare small, with well turned ankles. They have generally white teeth, good mouths, magnificent black eyes, and glossy black hair, in the dressing of which they daily bestow much pains. They appear to be amiable and kindhearted, and are said to make good wives and mothers. They are cleanly in their habits, for most of the towns and haciendas being situated on running streams, they have every advantage for bathing, of which they avail themselves most liberally, without encumbering themselves with much superfluous clothing. Their usual dress consists of thin slippers, without stockings, a cloth petticoat, usually red, and a chemise, which exposes more of the person than is, in most countries, considered to be consistent with due regard to modesty; but this is the custom of the country, and I am not disposed to criticise it. With a rosary around the neck, and gold ear-rings, and you have the female costume complete. When they go abroad the rebosa is generally worn either over the head, concealing the greater portion of the face, or over the shoulders like a shawl. It is worn by all Mexican women, its quality depending on the condition of the wearer. To their ordinary domestic duties they add the weaving of rebosas and blankets. The latter are worn by them as an outer covering, and is literally "a bed by night, a garment all the day." Many of them are of fine texture, and of great beauty of figure and color. Their prices vary from $3 to $75, and even to $100. Many of the better class of females are well educated and accomplished ladies, who would grace the saloons of the most polished capitals. "The wealthier class live in a style of great luxury, and I have seldom partaken of more and silver are beautiful and rich, the courses follow each other in rapid succession, and the table groans with the profusion of meats, fruits, confectionary and wines piled upon it. Editorial Correspondence of the Picayune JALAPA, MEXICO, May 14, 1847.

For two or three days there has hardly been an item of news worth recording-not even a rumor of the least moment; but last evening and this morning reports have come in which are entitled to some little show of importance. It is now confidently asserted that Santa Anna has moved from Orizaba, and in the direction of Puebla and the city of Mexico.

Last night an intelligent Spaniard informed me that he had seen two letters from Orizaba, one dated the 6th and the other 7th inst. On the first day the letter stated that the first brigade or division of Santa Anna's army started en route for Puebla, and the 7th the other division marched in the same direction. His entire force was put down at 2500, the most of them indifferently armed and under little or no discipline.

If Santa Anna has moved towards the capital, and there is certainly a good reason to believe that he has, his intentions are doubtless to control the election for President, which takes place to-morrow. He cannot certainly have he temerity to even think of attacking Gen. Worth, whose division could put to flight 10,-000 of the best Mexican troops that ever bore arms: so that the conviction is irresistible that he intends having a hand in the coming election. One would naturally think that after two Republics, at Fort Moultrie, and held then ardly tyrant loves power and place too well, dollar, a musket, and an open road on which to run, left in the Republic.

Messrs. Editors: You would confer a favor by giving the following interesting sketch of the manly virtues and heroic daring of the gallant Bragg, Captain of the Flying Artillery employed in the service of the U. It is from the pen of a warm and attached friend of the brave Captain's, and bespeaks the unwavering attachment which his own amiability of character and welcomed to our beautiful and hospitable city him from those whose good fortune it has been to make his acquaintance.

THE CITY OF MEXICO.

The following description of the city of Mexico, which we find in the Washington correspondence of the Boston Post, will, we think, be interesting to most of our readers. They will be pleased to find that Mexico is so fine a place, inasmuch as it is now, or will soon be, in the possession of our gallant troops :-

That will be a curious spectacle, however, to see a city with a population of 250,000, surrendering at will to an army of a distant republic numbering not over six or eight thousand! Very few of our people have an adequate idea of the extent and magnificence of the Mexican capital. The city of Mexico stands nearly in the centre of an elevated plain or plateau, surrounded by mountains and having an area of about 1700 square miles, one-tenth covered by lakes. It is undoubtedly one of the finest cities in either hemisphere and inferior only to Petersburg, Berlin, London and Philadelphia, as respects the regularity and breadth of the streets, and the extent of its publi places. The streets are wide, well paved, and flagged, but not well lighted or watched at night. They run almost uniformly at right angles, many of them being nearly two miles in length, perfectly level and straight, and offering from every view the most picturesque scenery. The houses are nearly all hollow squares, with open courts sur ounded by colonnades and ornamented with plants. Numbers of the houses are covered with glass porcelain, in a variety of elegant designs and cracker, or vice versa, and there's a circus at patterns. The balustrades and gates are of Biscay iron, ornamented with brass.

The Plaza Mayor, or grand square, is one of the finest seen in any metropolis, having in its centre a colossal statue of Charles IV., said to be the finest work of the kind in the new world. Its east side is occupied by the cathedral and segrario, or parish church, and its north side by the and inquired, 'Hay indiana?' Curious.—Recently the good folks of the Quaker City (Philadelphia) have been entertained by somewhat of a novel discussion.-Green, the reformed gambler, had been lecturing there for the purpose of exposing the manner in which the professed blackleg manages, by the means of marked cards, &c., to cheat his victims out of their money, when a disposition to overdo matters-" to run the man by the name of Freeman, who professed thing in the ground"—is at work as well in openly that he was a gambler of the first water, challenged Green to a public discussion on the light fingered art. Freeman defended the practice of gambling, so say the Philadelof Directors, Cashier of the Bank of Cape phia papers, with a great deal of tact and ability-too much for such an unworthy cause. The singular result, however, is, that Freeman himself has taken up the cudgels against the "science" which he so recently defended, and is now publicly exposing the various tricks of Faro, Poker, &c. &c.

LIEUTENANT HUNTER.—This young officer seems to be the Lion of the day. We see that the citizens of New York are about to present him with a Sword, to cost $500. Really, we must think that the people of the U. S. are evincing in the case of Lt. Hunter. somewhat of the same species of folly which marked the progress of Dickens, through the principal Cities of the Union some years ago Of course we do not draw a parallel between the two individuals, or between the circumstances under which they are presented to the American people. Very far from it. But we would be understood to mean that the same the one as in the other case. What are the real facts in the case? But before we state the facts, we would merely observe that we whole history of this Hunter affair. The simple facts then are these: Lt. Hunter was ordered to blockade the port of Alvarado; that and then proceeded up the river and burned one, abandoned another, and took two schoon ers belonging to the enemy; -that he then, without any orders, captured the city of Tla-OF-LIEUT. HUNTER, says the Baltimore co-Talpam;-that when ordered to report facts, because the Court before which he was tried, have found them to be facts. The Naval Court martial which passed upon the case of Lt. Hunter, found him guilty of disobedience of orders and contempt towards the Commander-in-Chief, and sentenced him to be dismissed from the service of the Home Squadron, and reprimanded by the Commander-in-Chief :- said reprimand to be publicly read on the quarter-deck of each vessel in the Squadron. This was the sentence of the Court .-Commodore Perry carried the sentence into execution; and certainly, in our estimation, did so in about as reprehensible a manner as he well could. There is no excuse for the harsh, and we may add, vindictive language used in the "reprimand." Now, then, what is there in all this to create all at once, out of a Lieutenant in the Navy, such a hero as Hunter has become? absolutely nothing. Our opinion is, that he, (Hunter,) disobeyed orders, and therefore erred-that the punishment is more severe than it might have been; and that Commodore Perry behaved himself badly in carrying the sentence of the Court into execution. But what will be the consequence, if, when an officer, either in the Army or Navy disobeys, and is punished for it, he is forthwith puffed into a hero by the press of the country? And feted and lauded by the unthinking portion of the community. Why, of tains a command, will do exactly the same

Rahway, January 25, 1847.

A year since I was taken with the influenza and my whole system left in a debilitated state. I was induced to try Dr. Townsend's Farsaparilla, and after taking two or three bottles I was very mark relieved, and stributed it entirely to the said Sarasparilla. I have continued taking it, and find that I improve every day. I believe it may life, and would not be without it under any consideration.

Two Forrer—John Jackson, Foq., Editor of the Rabway Republican, published the above certificate, and remarked in an editorial as follows:

The success of Dr. Townsend's preparation of Surserparilla appears to be of the most extraordinary character. We publish to-day two certificates in its behalf, one from Capt. McLean, of this town, and one from Rev. Mr. White, of Staten Island, a gentlemen well known in Rahway.—Capt. McLean believes the medicine to have saved his life, and Mr. White seems to entertain an equally strong confidence in its efficacy. Intelligent men like these would not praise so a rongly what they did not fully believe to deserve it.

Schopula Curro.—This certificate was handed in 60 Dr. Townsend's office this week, and conclusively proved that his Scrapparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the blood. Three perseas cured in one house is unprecedented.

Three Children.

Dr. Townsend—Dear Sir: I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been curred of the Scrofula by the use of your excellent medicine. They were afflicted very severely with bad serve; have taken only four bottles; it (sok fibem away, for which I feel myself under deep obligation. Yours respectfully, ISAAC W. RHEUNATISM & THE PILES.

September 10, 1866.

Dr. Townsend—Dear Sir: My wife has been for several years afflicted with rheumatism. She has tried many different remedies to obtain some relief, but all to not purpose. She was finally induced, by seeing your advertisement, to give your Sarsaparilla a trial. We precured some of it from your agent (Mr. Van Buskirk and it gives me pleasure to state that after using it she experienced great relief, and was in a very short time perfectly cured. I was also (together with a man in my employ) badly troubled with piles, and by using a small quantity of your Sarsaparilla, our complaint was completely cured. I consider it one of the best of medicinear and would advise all who are afflicted to give it a trial.

Brooklyn, Sept. 14. 1846.

Dr. Townsend—Dear Sir: I was taken, a little over a year ago, with a severe cough and a pain in my side. It increased on me very fast, indeed. I was pronounced by physicians to have the quick consumption. I relaed large quantities of bad matter, had hight sweats, and sinking very fast: my doctor said he cottid do nothing for me. I went into the hospital in hope of being benefitted, but was pronounced there as incurable I was now greatly distressed at the lungs and could hardly breathe; I soon became emaclated, and expected to dies was confined to my bed, and was obliged to have watchers; indeed I cannot give you any description that would do justice to my case. I was supposed by my friends to be past recovery; I had tried a great number of concilies, and all secured to be to no purpose. I read of some most extrordinary cures performed by your medicine, and to tell you the truth, I suspected there was some humbug in them. But I was induced to try it; I did so, and am very thankful I did. I cannot say that I am entirely well, but am so far recovered as to be about my business, and hope to be entirely well in a few weeks. My cough and pain in the side, and night sweath have left me, and raise but very little, and am fast gaining my usual strength. I felt it a duty to give you a statement of my case, to publish if you please.

After the first me

On Friday last, the whole of this gallant regiment, whose history we have thus briefly sketched, arrived in our city. It numbers just three hundred and fifty, about one-third the force with which it left. And this loss it has sustained in a twelve-months' campaign. It has averaged a loss of fifty men a month. Truly does the history of this regiment dis-resolve, and unconquerable valor of the American people. The history of no nation can low their Children or Wards to have accounts in present similar instances of volunteer soldiers the City, but to deposit the money, for the purembarking in such hazardous and destructive chase of necessaries, in the hands of the Principal enterprises, and encountering so willingly the N. We understand that this able and sagacious officer expresses the opinion that the prospect of peace in Mexico is more remote now than it was after the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca. The Mexicans think that it will be impossible for us to hold the country long, on be founded in justice, and more in accordance account of the immense expense to which our with the customs of other markets, have agreed to government will be subjected, and also from establish for their future government, the followthe expectation that the divisions of parties ing regulations, commencing on the 15th of June and differences of opinion among our people next. will eventually cause the withdrawal of our armies from the country. Gen. Patterson thinks that we ought not to look for or solicit a peace, but should proceed in the most prompt and vigorous manner to conquer and occupy the whole of Mexico .-When we have done this, a government should be organized, officers appointed throughout ested in ascertaining the quantity and quality of the country, and a large army distributed through the States to maintain our authority shall be equeally divided. Ship Fever in New York .- This alarming disease is rapidly progressing in New York. On Thursday last, nearly 100 patients, had been sent from the Alms House alone to the Bellevue Hospital. Cases of it are to be found in every ward of the city, and many valuable citizens have already fallen victims to the infection. Among them we notice the name of Dr. Van Buren, the assistant physician at Bellevue. At Staten Island the deaths amount to 10 per cent. of the cases, and at Bellevue to 40 per cent.
